

Privacy Policy

Effective date: 25 October 2026 | Contact: webifyglobals@gmail.com

This Privacy Policy explains how WebifyGlobals ("we", "us", or "our") handles personal information in connection with its website, enquiries and digital services. It applies to visitors, prospective customers and business contacts. This document should be read together with any separately agreed project or service contract.

1. Information we may collect

Information you choose to provide, such as your name, company name, work email, telephone number, project requirements, messages, files and meeting-booking details.

Technical and usage information that the website, hosting provider or enabled analytics tools may collect, such as IP address, device and browser type, pages visited, referral information and diagnostic logs. Collection depends on which website tools are actually enabled.

Information related to a client engagement, including authorised contacts, communications, billing details and materials required to deliver contracted services.

2. How we use information

To respond to enquiries, schedule meetings, discuss proposals, provide requested services, manage customer relationships and send transactional or project-related communications.

To operate, protect, troubleshoot and improve the website and services; to meet legal obligations; and, where applicable, to send marketing communications in accordance with the choices and permissions required by law.

3. Legal basis, notice and consent

Where required by applicable data-protection law, we provide relevant notices and seek consent for specific processing activities. Other processing may be permitted under applicable law, including processing necessary for purposes recognised by law. You may contact us about consent and privacy choices using the details below.

WebifyGlobals operates from India and will implement obligations under the Digital Personal Data Protection Act, 2023 and applicable rules as their relevant provisions commence and apply.

4. Sharing and service providers

Personal information may be shared with service providers that support hosting, communications, scheduling, analytics, customer management or project delivery, only to the extent reasonably necessary for the relevant purpose and subject to applicable safeguards.

For example, clicking a Calendly booking link takes you to Calendly, whose own privacy terms may govern information supplied there. Third-party websites linked from our site operate under their own policies.

We may disclose information where reasonably necessary to comply with law, respond to lawful requests, protect rights and safety, or manage a genuine business reorganisation.

5. Cookies and similar technologies

The website and third-party integrations may use strictly necessary technologies and, if enabled, analytics or preference technologies. The precise cookies depend on the tools deployed on the live website. Where required, visitors will be offered appropriate information and choices. Browser settings may also help manage cookies.

6. Retention and security

We retain information for as long as reasonably necessary for the stated purpose, contractual obligations, legitimate recordkeeping and applicable legal requirements, then delete or de-identify it as appropriate. Specific retention periods depend on the record category and relevant law.

We use reasonable organisational and technical precautions proportionate to the information handled. No internet transmission or storage system can be guaranteed completely secure.

7. International processing

Some service providers or customers may operate outside India. Information may therefore be accessed or processed internationally, subject to applicable legal requirements and any restrictions that apply to cross-border transfers.

8. Your privacy choices and requests

Depending on applicable law, you may request access to information about your personal data, correction, updating, erasure, grievance redressal or withdrawal of consent where applicable. We will assess and respond to requests according to the applicable legal framework and any lawful exceptions.

To submit a privacy request or complaint, email webifyglobals@gmail.com with sufficient information to identify your request. Please do not send passwords or unnecessary sensitive information.

9. Children

The website and services are designed primarily for businesses and adults. We do not intentionally seek to collect information from children through the general enquiry process. If you believe a child has provided information, please contact us.

10. Updates

We may update this policy when website features, vendors, services or legal obligations change. The latest published version will show its effective date. Material changes will be communicated where required by law.
